

“Doing Right First Time”

“If you don’t have time to do it right, When will you have time to do it over”

John Wooden

It's a good reminder that rushing through something might save you time right now, but it'll ultimately take you more time to do it over if there are problems. Saving time is great when it doesn't come at a cost, but when you run the risk of making mistakes by taking the shortest route you're not really saving time at all.
