

Thought for the Week

Weak Leaders try to hire subordinates who are less competent than themselves. So the highest competency available in the organization is equal to Leader's competency.

Great Leaders try to hire subordinates who are more smarter and talented than them.

This is one of the differentiators between an Ordinary organization and Great organization